

Stanford Humanities Fellows

Stanford University invites applications for the Stanford Humanities Fellows program, a postdoctoral fellowship designed to give the best recent Ph.D. recipients in the humanities a unique opportunity to develop as scholars and teachers. Up to six Fellowships will be awarded for a two-year term. Fellows will teach one course and contribute a second course-equivalent per year in one of Stanford's fifteen humanities departments. In addition, Fellows will be expected to participate in the intellectual life of the program by sharing work in progress, meeting regularly as a group and with faculty, and generally contributing to the community of humanists at Stanford. It is expected, too, that Fellows will be in residence during the term of their appointment.

Eligible fields for the 2006-07 competition:

Asian Languages ♦ Comparative Literature ♦ French and Italian ♦ German Studies
Linguistics ♦ Slavic Languages and Literatures ♦ Spanish and Portuguese

Candidates for this year's competition must have received their Ph.D. degree between January 1, 2004 and June 30, 2007. Fellowships will begin on September 1, 2007.

The stipend for 2007-2008 will be approximately $50,000, and compensation will include additional support for computer assistance, research, and relocation expenses, depending on the individual Fellow's needs.

The application deadline is Monday, December 4, 2006. Please complete our web-based application form at <http://fellows.stanford.edu>. Once you have submitted your application form on-line, please submit hard copies of the following materials to the address below:

1. A brief cover note detailing the field for which you are applying.
2. Curriculum vitae.
3. Dissertation abstract (up to three pages).
4. A sample of written work (no longer than 50 pages).
5. A separate description of teaching experience and interests (up to three pages).
NB: Courses will be offered through standing Stanford departments; applicants should familiarize themselves with recent course offerings and department curricula.
6. Three confidential letters of recommendation (or the applicant's active graduate school dossier).

Faxed or electronic application materials cannot be considered. Send all materials to:

Professor Seth Lerer
Humanities Fellows Program ♦ Bldg 460, Rm 201
Stanford University ♦ 450 Serra Mall
